

PROFILE pink magazine is a bi-annual title published by Stretton Publishing Company Ltd, and is New Zealand's only lifestyle magazine that focuses on breast cancer.

pink magazine was initially launched to coincide with Breast Cancer Awareness month in October 2005. It is now published bi-annually in both April and October.

pink magazine is an informative and inspiring publication with an assortment of educational and lifestyle articles. It tells the stories of those courageous men and women who have battled breast cancer, it keeps its readers informed with articles written by experts in the health industry, and all this is balanced with fashion, health, wellbeing, and beauty sections.

pink magazine is aimed at people who have had breast cancer, those who have supported or come into contact with someone with breast cancer, and those who wish to be more informed about this disease. Breast cancer is New Zealand's biggest cancer killer of women. $1.20 from each magazine sold goes back to supporting breast cancer initiatives and the crucial work they do.

More than one in ten women will develop breast cancer at some stage in their lives. Over 2,500 new cases of breast cancer are diagnosed each year. That's about 50 women per week. For every woman who is diagnosed, many people are affected – husbands, partners, children, family, and friends. With statistics like these, it is easy to see the need to increase awareness of breast cancer in New Zealand.

600-700 women die of breast cancer each year in New Zealand - that is almost 14 women per week.
